SHADE AND ORNAMENTAL TREES

CHINESE ELM—More Chinese Elm are being planted in Colorado than all other variety of forest trees combined. They have proven superior for planting in dry locations and grow rapid even in poor soil. Some damage and losses were caused in the Fall of 1940 by the early severe freezing before the trees were ripened up for Winter. The effect of this did not show up until later when it was thought by some to be a disease.

This unusual weather condition may never happen again. Our advise is not to water after August 15th. If trees are in the lawn, sprinkle surface light and keep grass green. Chinese Elm will survive in dry locations where other trees will fail.

Prices are for straight, stalky, well-trimmed trees.
